OUR MOMENT IS NOW

LAMAR UNIVERSITY

PREAMBLE

When workers struck oil at Spindletop over 100 years ago, it forever changed the landscape of Southeast Texas and catapulted the world into the oil age. An important part of Lamar University's institutional identity is tied to that massive 1901 oil gusher, which set the foundation for South Park Junior College's creation in 1923. From our earliest days as an institution of higher education, we have adapted quickly to our environment, whether it be the unprecedented population growth of a young boomtown, or the rapid technological and business innovation that followed. In these early contexts, the institution quickly became an integral frontrunner in technology and energy education. Throughout the twentieth century, Lamar University has served Southeast Texas in a strategic, relevant, and sustainable way. Our founders wanted education that produced leaders for this region, and they succeeded.

Today, Lamar University is thriving as a boomtown of knowledge. A diverse population of faculty, staff, and students creates a campus culture committed to student engagement and success, and to the advancement of research with relevance that energizes economic development locally, nationally, and around the world. Over the course of our rich 100-year history, the education we provide is far more versatile, firmly grounded in the humanities and sciences, but with a continued emphasis on practical applications. The result provides a sharp advantage to our graduates as they develop skills for lifelong learning and prepare for the jobs they will have throughout their careers.

As we look toward our second century, now is the time to tap into our strengths and find ways to multiply their impact for the future. With each new strategic investment in research, academic programs, internships and cooperative education, we extend the influence of Southeast Texas across the entire state and nation. We will need to think creatively about emerging economies to ensure our graduates are the trailblazers of the next century. What we do next will be transformative - because our moment is now.
