Your Future

The painting curriculum includes many opportunities for the development of skill and personal vision. Students are exposed to a variety of approaches to painting including diverse media, historical and contemporary techniques, color theory, the chemistry and physics of paint and painting supports, presentation of paintings, all involving faculty guidance to the student's process of self-discovery. Supported by a rigorous drawing curriculum, students work with individually assigned problems in painting toward the achievement of mastery.

The undergraduate painting study experience culminates in Lamar's unique senior thesis program involving a series of original works produced by each Bachelor of Fine Arts degree candidate, exhibited in the Dishman Art Museum, and defended by the student in a formal written thesis.
