

BOYD LANIER, PhD
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF POLITICAL SCIENCE
DEPARTMENT GRADUATE AND UNDERGRADUATE ADVISOR

Dr. Boyd Lanier has taught on the Lamar campus for the last four decades. He was educated in a number of schools in the U.S. and Europe and graduated from Florida State University (B.A. in Political Science and International Relations, 1966, M.S. in Political Science, 1967, and Ph. D. in Political Science, 1970). He also holds a degree from Lamar University (B.A. in Deaf Education, Habilitation, 1984).

Dr. Lanier teaches the department's international politics and international law courses and has served as a pre-law advisor and past director of the BAAS program. He has taught in almost every mode of instruction offered by the university: on-campus, off-campus, branch campus sections, storefront classes, interactive television courses, tele-courses and on line. He serves as academic advisor to the department's graduate students and undergraduate majors.
