I. POLICY: LIBRARY DATABASE ACCESS POLICY

GENERAL EXPLANATION OF COPYRIGHT

The Mary and John Gray Library subscribes to digital journals, digital books, and other databases primarily for current faculty, students, and staff and, in some cases, on-site visitors. Access to and use of electronic resources is governed by copyright laws and individual license agreements and other legally binding contracts, such as Terms of Use. All individual users must comply with publishers' License Agreements and Terms of Use for the applicable electronic resource. It is the responsibility of individual users to ensure that use of electronic resources does not breach the terms and conditions specified in the license agreements.

PRIVACY

Users have no explicit or implicit expectation of privacy. Any or all uses and files may be intercepted, monitored, recorded, copied, audited, inspected and disclosed to authorized university and law enforcement personnel. By using these resources, the user consents to such interception, monitoring, recording, copying, auditing, inspection, and disclosure.

USER ACCESS TO LIBRARY DATABASES

Authorized users have full access to all library licensed databases.

Courtesy users (as defined in this policy) and the general public that are valid Texas residents may access TexShare resources, government documents, and a subset of our licensed databases while on library premises.

Alumni are considered members of the general public and do not have offsite access to licensed databases due to contractual agreements with the resource vendors.

Researchers working with or for the university may be granted access for the duration of their work by requesting a special login through the head of the department with which the researcher is working.

FEDERAL DEPOSITORY LIBRARY MATERIALS

The Mary and John Gray Library offers the general public free access to materials obtained through the Federal Depository Library Program (FDLP). As a participant in FDLP, the Mary and John Gray Library follows the principle of free access governing use of depository materials as provided for in the Depository Library Act of 1962 and as stated in Chapter 19 of Title 44, United States Code.

Courtesy and general public users may access online FDLP information after obtaining login information from the Circulation Department. If downloading is required, users must provide their own storage media.

Research assistance for public users of FDLP information is equal to such services offered to other users and for other information.

CONSEQUENCES OF MISUSE OF LIBRARY DATABASES

Unauthorized or improper use of the electronic resources licensed by the Mary and John Gray Library may result in administrative disciplinary action and civil and criminal penalties. By continuing to use these resources you indicate your awareness of and consent to these terms and conditions of use.
