Psychology of Migration in a Changing Society

Throughout the program we’ll be learning about the impact of migration and immigration on Italian society, both in major cities and in rural villages. The journey starts in Rome with visits to all the major sites, before traveling southbound to the region of Calabria. We’ll stop in Badolato, a hill town rejuvenated by retirees from Northern Europe, and in the once sleepy town of Riace, now home to nearly 500 migrants, drawn from more than 20 countries beyond Europe. We’ll visit markets, farms, and co-ops to experience how the movement of people has impacted labor, economics, food, and culture in the region.
